ABOUT THE COURSE

A one-day course aimed exclusively for nurses and ODPs in acute and post-operative pain management and those involved in the care of patients receiving regional anaesthetic techniques

- Demonstration of relevant anatomy to regional anaesthesia on cadavers by Anatomy Lecturers at Durham University
- Lectures presented by leading doctors and nurses involved in regional anaesthesia and pain management
- Lectures on updates such as lipid rescue, management of patients with regional blocks, testing blocks, rescue analgesia and paediatric regional anaesthesia
- Opportunity to discuss tips and tricks with experts in regional anaesthesia and pain management

"A fantastic day with a good balance of practical demonstrations displays and slides. Informative speakers who related well to the audience"
"Content brilliant, informative and very enjoyable"
"Interesting & informative day, amazing insight"
"An enlightening, stimulating and challenging day"
"A very interesting day. I found the mix of practical and theory was at the right balance and each lecturer added their own part to the day"
